12 TIPS EVERY GOLF EVENT PLANNER MUST KNOW

DETERMINE YOUR TOURNAMENT OBJECTIVES

Raise funds for charity, raise funds for a school cause, thank you to customers or employees, or raise awareness for a non-profit organization.

IDENTIFY WHO WILL ATTEND

How big is your network? You need to identify what type of network you and your committee have. Most of the people I know are in the Medium Income range, so my events are always priced between $75 and $250. Whereas celebrities probably only attend tournaments that cost in the $5,000+ range.

PRICING YOUR EVENT

You want to price your event with a 50-100% markup. Many event coordinators will tell you that you will make most of your money off of raffles, silent and live auctions and sponsorships and to be reasonable with the price so you will have a good attendance. We disagree, because your attendance will come from your network and in all my years in business, price has never been the issue when targeting to the right people. If we look at the markup as our cushion for a scenario with a low turnout, then everything else from sponsorships and raffles will be an extra bonus!

CUTTING COSTS

Often, first time tournament hosts will spend too much money on the extras. Getting shirts made, promo items, advertising, and prizes that only take away from your profit. It isn't easy, and takes some maneuvering, but if you work hard enough, you can get a lot of those items donated, which will again reduce costs and increase profits.

PICKING THE RIGHT DATE & TIME

As an event venue who also attends multiple networking events a week and also hosts events for a living, we know how important it is to pick the right date and time for your event.

ENLISTING INFORMED AND FRIENDLY VOLUNTEERS

Having informed and personable volunteers makes registration and play easy, and having clueless volunteers or not enough volunteers can lead to frustration and confusion. When it comes to volunteers, communication and training is key. There are also many tasks involved when coordinating a golf tournament and it's important to have committees that can make sure all of the tasks get done before and after your event.

KEEPING YOUR TOURNAMENT FAST PACED & ORGANIZED

Golf is a slow paced sport, but that does not mean that people want to spend 7 hours on the course. Keep the tournament fast paced and fun by picking the right golf format and keeping things organized. When choosing your event format for your tournament, again think back to who will be attending your event. Better players may want a more traditional format (stroke play or match play), whereas novices (people who aren't as good at the game) may want to play formats that are a bit easier (best ball or scrambles) which are less intimidating, more enjoyable by all participants and easier to score.

12 TIPS EVERY GOLF EVENT PLANNER MUST KNOW

TOURNAMENT EXTRAS - GALA'S, BREAKFAST & ALCOHOL

In addition to picking your tournament format, you will want to choose what the whole event will look like. We've been to events that had no alcohol and others that had booze on every hole. Some tournaments have a Bloody Mary bar with breakfast followed by the tournament and a luncheon. Others will have a boxed lunch followed by a cocktail happy hour reception followed by a gala. You need to decide how much detail you want to add to the event. In our opinion, having food and possibly a beverage at the start of your event is a nice touch, and having a quick dinner or lunch afterwards is also ideal. Make sure you don't drag the dinner out, because too many tournaments end up being excruciatingly long and people need to get back to work or to their families.

SHOW APPRECIATION FOR YOUR PLAYERS THROUGH GIFTS & PRIZES

Gifts and prizes are another step of planning that should not be overlooked. Departure gifts will keep you in your players' minds when they leave the tournament, and welcome gifts will make the players feel special and appreciated. There is no replacement for a classic and carefully thought out gift for your players, and it is worth the extra investment.

CULTIVATE A FUN ATMOSPHERE

Gifts and prizes are an important aspect of a successful event, but nothing will be a better advertisement for next year's tournament than making this year's tournament the place to be. Fun contests, a professional feel, and a great atmosphere are what your players will remember when deciding which tournaments to attend next year.

SECURING GREAT SPONSORS

As far as sponsors go, the key to getting them to return year after year is getting them involved in your cause. If your tournament is for a non-profit, this means allowing the sponsors to meet some of the people they are directly benefiting with their sponsorship. If it is for a corporate event, talk to the sponsor about what his or her support is achieving and how important they are to you and your company. Don't forget that sponsors are also at your event for exposure, so make sure they get time to talk to the players and meet as many people as possible. As the tournament organizer, it is up to you to make sure connections are being made and that people are being given what they have been promised. Another important part of retaining players and sponsors is having a memorable awards ceremony that is inclusive and fun. The awards ceremony is how you wrap up the day, and highlight the purpose of the tournament. The mood of the awards ceremony is the mood that the players will leave with at the end of the night, so make it full of fun speeches, great prizes, and delicious food.

WORK WITH A STAFF THAT CARES

We would enjoy the opportunity to work with you in helping you achieve your goals with our professional and personable staff that will be here every step of the way to help guide you.
